METHODS TO GOVERN NOMINATION PETITIONS

Secretary Osborn Interprets the Statutes for the Benefit of Prospective Candidates

Appropose of the open season for filing nominating petitions, which begins July 8 and continues until August 18, Secretary of State Sidney P. Osborn yesterday gave out the rules and regulations governing the preparation of same.

The law provides that petitions for nomination for all state and federal offices must be signed by not less than one nor more than ten per cent of the total number of votes cast for governor by the party to which candidate for nomination belongs, the figures being taken from the last election returns. Signatures to the nominating petitions must be secured from at least three counties, and must not run over the ten per cent limit in any one county.

For example, the total vote cast for the democratic candidate for governor at the last election was 11,123, and a candidate for nomination for a state office or for United States congress on the democratic ticket will therefore have to secure at least 111 signatures to his petition, and not more than 11.12, ten per cent of the vote cast. A candidate for nomination on the socialist ticket would take the total cast for governor for his party's candidate, which was 1247, and secure the necessary percentage of that number in signatures.

The regulations governing nominating petitions for county offices are to the effect that not less than three per cent of the total vote cast by the party in the county at the last election must be represented on the petition, and not more than ten per cent, as in the state regulations.

Candidates for nomination to state offices can secure signatures from as many counties as they please, the only provision in this respect being that the signatures must be distributed over at least three counties. There are a few cases where in order to secure the necessary one per cent of votes cast, a candidate working in some of the more sparsely settled counties for nomination to a state or federal office might have to go outside of three counties to get the required number of signatures, but this is not likely to occur often.

For the information of prospective candidates, the official returns by counties of the first state election as given out by the secretary of state are published herewith.

Pupils' Successful Recital

A very interesting and enjoyable entertainment was given on Wednesday afternoon in the Presbyterian church by the pupils in the class of Miss Margaret Howard, teacher of pianoforte.

There was a fairly large and deeply interested audience present, consisting principally of relatives and friends of those taking part, together with a number of other folks who are lovers of music and interested in the progress of musical education in Flagstaff.

The church was specially arranged for the occasion and decorated in green and white, colors appropriate to the season, and the little girls and young ladies who took part were dressed in white, so the event was decidedly pleasing to the eye, as well as to the ear.

There were fifteen pupils to take part, only one of the number being prevented from being present, and all rendered their parts readily and well, without sign of embarrassment.

The first four numbers were by the newest pupils, the first especially interesting as indicating the very start in the art of piano playing.

But one criticism could be passed. There were no boys on the program, and this fact seems regrettable, if it is to indicate that the boys of Flagstaff are all passing by the opportunity to secure at the right time of life a knowledge of and proficiency in music.

The program follows:

1. The Start, Martha Moore.
2. Boat Song, Behr; Dora Colcord.
3. In May Time, Behr; Freda Hart.
4. a. The Dollies Tea Party, Mathews. b. Duet—Anna's Polka, Gooch. Vivian Heston.

11. a. In Twilight, Gauschals. b. Duet—Fire Balls, Behr; Josephine Yost.
12. a. The Golden Wedding, Lack. b. Spinning Song, Ellmenrick; Betty Herrington.
13. a. In Rank and File, Lange. b. Dolly's Dreaming and Awakening, Oesten; Florence Burnhelm.
14. a. Witches' Revels, Schytte. b. The Shepherd Boys Dream, Wilson; Kathryn Keller.
